IT'S CALLED A FAMILY BUSINESS FOR A REASON

Left: Steve Waters and John Waters at the 50th Anniversary Celebration | Right: Sharon Waters and Anna Waters Gavin at the 75th Anniversary Celebration

First we had the ribbon cutting of the newly renovated office. Then open house with customers, vendors and partners. Through the whole day there was one theme: This business is a family.

We could not have made it 75 years without the amazing Fireline Family.

To best share my thoughts on this, here is my speech from the ribbon cutting.

Welcome everyone to our 75th anniversary celebration and the official ribbon cutting of our newly renovated office!

We are here to celebrate this wonderful company my grandfather John Waters founded back in 1947. Back then, it was a business opportunity. An idea. A few guys and some trucks (and some extinguishers). Of course, it grew from there and eventually my father Stephen Waters came into the business in the 1970's, later expanding Fireline into suppression systems, fire alarms, sprinklers and more.

My grandfather, he loved the business. But for my father who grew up with the company, it was so much more. It was family. As a kid he would take me and my brother here on weekends so he could work while we watched Saturday morning cartoons. And somewhere along the way, Fireline found a way to weave itself into my childhood as well.

Years later when I came to work at Fireline I did not realize how much my grandfather and father were grooming me for this role. I learned a great deal about accounting and finance from my grandfather (though I am not as frugal a spender as he was) and I learned about leadership and how to care for the employees from my father. Their hard work, their vision, and their dedication to their employees is what kept Fireline going into three generations.

Losing my grandfather was hard. But losing my father only a year later, that gutted me. And in the time when I wanted to mourn him, I was faced with the prospect of running his company. Of taking care of all the employees who were very worried about what would happen to Fireline.

And so that brings me to the first of my thank you's. My mother Sharon.

I was a doe eyed 27-year-old who knew very little about running a company. My mother took an incredible risk putting the company in my hands. But she did. And here we are today.

Mom- we have been through a lot these 12 years but looking back now I know it was all worth it. Thank you for putting your faith in your daughter. Thank you.

During that transition and for all the years that followed there was one person who had to endure the most change, the most sacrifice, and the most....Anna on a tough day. And that is my husband Jeff. Jeff, I would never have been able to give so much to the Fireline family if you did not give so much to our family. Thank you for everything you do for me, for Ben, and for Libby to make our life together a happy one.

But of course, we know that the heart and soul of the success of Fireline lies with its hard working and fiercely loyal employees. I mean, we have multiple people here today that have been with the company for decades. In the audience raise your hand if you have been here over 10 years. How about over 20? Over 30? And where are my over 40? And Phil Bowers here who retired on his 50th anniversary! These are the people who built careers here and helped to found what we are today.

Many companies boast that they are a family business. But that is usually because they are referring to the ownership of the company. Fireline is a family business not just because of the Waters family, but because of our employees.

It is Fireline employees who have built our Fireline family. They care about the success of Fireline just as much as I do. They work together, care about each other (sometimes bicker with each other), but do what it takes to see our company grow. Thank you to all the employees here, and the 180 other employees out working today, for all you have done and all you continue to do for Fireline.

I like to think I too have grown a great deal these past 12 years. I am not the person I was, and I am proud of the person I am becoming thanks to many of you here today. So, a special thank you to those of you who have helped me in this journey. To my co-workers who push me to be better, my business coach for encouraging me to go outside my comfort zone, and to my industry and business friends who teach me and inspire me every day. I am beyond grateful.

Now 75 years is quite a milestone for any company. And I am thrilled we can all celebrate it together. But we are not just here to celebrate our anniversary, we are here to show off this newly renovated office!

I am so excited to be here in this moment that I have dreamed about a long...long time. My grandfather built this building in the 1960's. And while it went through many renovations during its time, none have been as substantial as this one. Don't get me wrong, the 1970's wood paneling did have its own sort of vintage chic look going, but we all knew it was time for a big change. Not just because the facility needed it, but because the Fireline family needed it.

This renovation was the work of many revisions, and it took nearly 4 years just to get to the point of construction. Along the way I was privileged to work with companies like Arium AE for our design and Sill Engineering for our civil work. And once we started construction our General Contractor JC Porter ran a tight ship with excellent project management (despite the local bureaucracy causing a few hiccups). And of course, I am very grateful to Fulton Bank for their financial support that really truly gave us the means to make this project a reality. But most especially I want to thank Marc Fisher, my owner's representative, who walked me through every step of this project from the very beginning. Marc kept everyone on task and provided valuable advice that helped to make this renovation a success. Thank you Marc and thank you renovation team for getting us here today.

I view this office renovation as an investment into Fireline's future. These buildings represent so much more than just a new kitchen or new lighting. It's a layout that embraces collaboration and technology. A facility that will see us through for the years to come. This renovation is a place for the next generation of Fireline. It marks a key milestone in our future just the way our 75th anniversary marks a milestone in our history.

So with all that said I want to ask my fellow owner and mother Sharon Waters to join me in cutting this ribbon and officially welcoming the future of Fireline.

And thank you to everyone who supported me during one hell of a year. All the Fireline Family who kept things running despite the added chaos of construction. Special shout out to Tori Cowley who took on the part time job of "Anna caretaker" this past year when I was struggling to keep up. It has taken so much to get here, and I am so looking forward to enjoying the new space!

New to the Team

Join us in welcoming all of our new Fireline employees. Lots of new faces to learn, so take note!

RETIREMENTS - ON TO THE Next Chapter!

This year we have had three long term employees retire from Fireline. We are so grateful for all they have done for us and wish them the best!

Robin Busch

In March we said goodbye to Robin who has been with Fireline since 2003. Robin made up a part of our strong and loyal service sales team. She spent her years focused on the Baltimore area and has managed numerous long term customers for Fireline over the years. We will miss her sunny smile.

Congrats Robin!

Neil Walters

In April we wish Neil a fond farewell (though he is still assisting us now and then on some jobs). Neil joined Fireline in 2000. Neil is a certified plumber in Maryland which allowed us to service backflows for many years, making Neil "the backflow guy". Neil is excited to have some time to relax and catch up on many movies he has wanted to watch over the years.

Congrats Neil!

Ken Barnhart

By the time this newsletter comes out Ken will be happily settled into his new home in Montreal! The original Fireline "IT Guy" Ken first worked with Fireline in 1999 to help us transition for Y2K. He later worked for us as a subcontractor before coming in as an employee in 2009. Fireline's IT infrastructure and the importance of technology has increased tenfold the past twenty years and Ken has been with us through it all. Ken is still assisting us part time remotely from Canada, easing into retirement over the rest of the year.

Congrats Ken and enjoy beautiful Montreal!

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION, RIBBON CUTTING AND OPEN HOUSE

It was a big day on May 5th at the Fireline Baltimore Office.

After years of planning and a year of construction in 2021, Fireline owners Anna Gavin and Sharon Waters cut the ribbon on the newly renovated office. Celebrating the milestone with family, vendors and legacy employees.

In addition to this unveiling of the new office, Fireline took the opportunity to celebrate the company's 75th anniversary with our customers and partners. The ribbon cutting lead into an open house event for the remainder of the day where customers could tour the facility, meet vendors and even put out a live fire or two.

It was a successful event with many people stopping by throughout the day to share in both milestone events.

Some kind words from our customers and partners:

"Thank you so much for the invitation to celebrate 75 years of Fireline. We really appreciate you taking the time to show us around your company's facility and providing lunch and gifts. It was wonderful to see the family culture that your team has and the pride and care that is put into what you all do for your company and your customers.

"Thank you for the invite to your open house last Thursday. Your team did a great job of renovating all of your facilities. Speaking of your team, I don't have to tell you how good they are. I really appreciated the opportunity to spend time with the good people of Fireline and to participate in the activities. Thanks again for the invite."

"Thank you once again for inviting me to the anniversary party. It was truly great to see some of the employees that I haven't seen for quite a while."

"I have to congratulate you on the renovation of the buildings. I was amazed to see how great they looked and the organization of product. You and your team did an unbelievable job and all of you should be proud to go to work there every day. Under your leadership Fireline is poised to move forward for the next generation. Mr. Waters and Steve would certainly be proud of the business and you."

Kind words from our customers and partners, continued:

"I appreciate the invite and your team showing us around. The facility looks amazing! You have done a great job and it has been a pleasure working with the Fireline team and we look forward to future endeavors."

"Your team does so much to promote our brand and we are lucky to part of your success. Look forward to the future and what we can do together."

Fireline Corporation Celebrates 75th Anniversary Milestone Three Generations Setting the Standard in Fire Protection since 1947

Baltimore, MD (May 2022) Fireline Corporation, a multi-generational, women-owned Maryland-based corporation specializing in fire protection, recently celebrated 75 years in business with a ribbon cutting and open house celebration at the newly renovated office campus on Hollins Ferry Rd. in Baltimore, MD.

With friends and family in attendance, Anna Gavin, President of Fireline Corporation, received citations from Maryland Governor Larry Hogan and Baltimore County Executive Johnny Olszewski. The Governor's Citation was given in appreciation for Fireline's outstanding service to the citizens of the State of Maryland. The Executive Citation from the Baltimore County Executive designated August 1, 2022 as "Fireline Corporation Day" in Baltimore County and recognized the exemplary service in protecting the community.

"A milestone like this really affords us the opportunity to look back and admire all we have achieved in 75 years. The evolution from my grandfather's fire extinguisher shop in 1947 to our newly renovated office campus in Baltimore is a great example of how far we have come," said Anna Gavin, President of Fireline since 2010. "A lot has changed in 75 years, but there have been two common threads throughout. Our focus on quality services to our customers and our focus on quality care for our employees. Many of our employees have dedicated their careers to Fireline and have helped build the Fireline we have today".

Fireline Corporation has a long standing history of being an industry pioneer as it was the first company in Maryland to sell the ABC dry chemical fire extinguishers, which is now the standard for most common fire hazards. During Ms. Gavin's tenure as President, she continues to operate by her grandfather and father's high standards- embracing new technologies, while holding true to the values and quality practices that have kept the company successful throughout the years. "Many companies boast that they are family businesses. But that is usually because they are referring to the ownership of the company. Fireline is a family business not just because of the Waters family, but because of our employees," said Ms. Gavin at the ribbon cutting.

For the last 12 years, Fireline Corporation has been women-owned company and currently holds certifications with Baltimore City and the Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBENC). Every year, the company has been listed on the Top 10 Largest, Women-Owned Businesses in Baltimore by the Baltimore Business Journal. Ms. Gavin has grown the company from 140 employees to 230 employees, some of which have been with the company for over 45 years.

Fireline has worked with facilities including George Washington's Mt. Vernon, Towson University, The Social Security Administration, Exelon Corporation, Dominion Energy, Cove Point LNG, Thurgood Marshall BWI Airport, The Walters Art Gallery, Bowie State University, as well as a large number of historical locations in Washington DC. For more information about Fireline Corporation, visit www.fireline.com.

IT'S GOOD TO Be Back!

With construction behind us and viruses more under control our Baltimore office staff has started coming back in part time on a new hybrid schedule. It's good to see people in the halls and sharing a chat between meetings. Putting the newly renovated office to good use!

FIRELINE'S TRAINING LAB IS FINALLY BACK IN BUSINESS!

The return of the lab has already allowed for several 3 day Basic Fire Alarm classes where participants leave with knowledge ranging from what a resistor is, all the way to how to program a fire warden for complex elevator recall functions! Some recent participants included not only service department techs, but a few newer systems techs as well as office admin.

We are looking for options on how to integrate more hands on sprinkler training as well.

Moving forward we have on the schedule already:

- A few more of this series of basic fire alarm classes.
- More NICET prep classes are scheduled for water based test and inspect levels I, II, and III.

We are really concentrating on this since sprinkler inspections are requiring certified techs more and more almost daily.

- E-light code training.

Not just the basics of how to test, but also how to identify what types of units and where they should be installed.

- More of the basic multi meter training class!

This class teaches our techs how to be safe with their meters and use them more effectively. Just like everyone uses a phone differently, they use meters differently. Sharing techniques often adds confidence and understand of why.

- Advanced meter training classes.

In this series, we work more extensively with common troubleshooting, including the dreaded ground fault.

- We will be teaching a Notifier onyx university class. Techs will be officially certified in programming Notifier Onyx series systems.

What's on the horizon?

- Captiveaire training in house! We have a complete restaurant system to assemble, test and troubleshoot. We will most likely have a few of these classes.
- We are building a basic sprinkler service class. Much like the basic fire alarm, we will learn about components, plan for some hands on with wet, dry, and pre-action systems. We will also learn where and when of code implementation, and how to test and inspect accurately and consistently.
- Hydrant testing! We are planning on a class or maybe 2 on how to properly flush AND flow AND calculate hydrant and loop capacities.

- Communicator training. With emerging technologies, we are always being flooded with new products and protocols.

We will cover which communication paths are accepted currently and how to care and feeding of the more common cellular and radio devices.

- We have also had some requests for fenwal and potter programming familiarity.
- Air compressor and nitrogen generator training. Routine maintenance and concept.

And I may even take a day off somewhere in there!

Movers and Shakers!

These folks have recently taken on new roles with Fireline. We are looking forward to seeing them excel in these roles as the company continues to evolve.

Congrats and thank you all!

Mike Ramiro

FROM A CO-WORKER

Just wanted to make you aware, that Mike has gone above and beyond to help Johnnie Johnson, and the Sprinkler Install department.

Apparently, the install department had a job relocating some sprinkler heads for a car rental company tenant. The property management company who oversees that building reached out to Mike. Mike setup with Honeywell to disable the Fire Alarm system for the install department crew to do the repair work. He also assisted with them showing the isolate valves for the tenant space.

Originally this work was scheduled to be performed afterhours (2pm to 10pm) But Mike coordinated with the tenants and Honeywell to reschedule the work window to 8am-4pm to better accommodate all parties normal working hours. I know you say that we handle things out here. But I just wanted to make it known to you how selfless and a team player he can be.

Nick Copsey

FROM A CUSTOMER

Looks like we have lost 8 bar in the Mist Room in roughly 55 days (see below), which is amazing, hopefully this trend will continue! I would say that's a massive improvement to previous years and certainly since Fireline took over the system. Attached is an old spreadsheet of tank loss to remind us how far we have come. I would say we got to this point through not only finding multiple leaks in the mist room but also what leaks we found in the South.

Thanks as always, for your continued support of our Monticello. You are a major reason we keep our services with Fireline.

Kelsey Payne

FROM A CO-WORKER

I know I have said it before, but I wanted to send another email giving kudos for all your amazing notes. Everything that is helpful for the next service/technician, I have added to contract notes to print on the next ticket. :)

Chris Denbow

FROM A CO-WORKER/CUSTOMER

"Great information. I appreciate the effort it took to put this together. I think your approach is spot on."

I wanted to share a sample of the ownership they take and the positive feedback we get from customers. The request for information came into me and Chris was cc'd on the email, he took it upon himself to put the information together in a thoughtful and intelligent way, considering Fireline's revenue stream and the customer's budget. Not only was this an example of ownership and great customer service it was a huge help to me!

Rich Kavlich

FROM A CUSTOMER

Currently, your company is performing the sprinkler portion of our new school. We had a bit of a rocky start; however, things have ironed out, and I am pleased with the performance to date.

I wanted to highlight one of your employees, Rick Kavlich, who has been a tremendous help to me and our project. His professionalism, thoroughness, and unwavering commitment to the client are admirable. He succeeds in his efforts to ensure we are satisfied, and his social skills and temperament while working with the client are above par.

Joe Dantoni

FROM CO-WORKERS

I just want to give some KUDOS to Joe Dantoni, this past Friday Night Joe Dantoni was not on call but was willing to help out. He took a call for a Fire Pump problem, put that job back in service and they drove to Rockville for another emergency service call.

"Great Job, Thanks Joe "

I'm not surprised.... I rely heavily on him for a few sites I have overseen. He does a fantastic job and is always willing to do what is necessary to help our customers. Definitely a true asset and pivotal member of our team! It would be easier to report on days when Joe Dantoni does not go way above and beyond. Joe Dantoni is one of the best employees that Fireline has in her ranks.

Fred Anders, Joe Dantoni

FROM A CUSTOMER

Thank you for your prompt response into guiding me to create a Service call for the fire pump issue leak we had in the building on Wednesday. Your earliest availability was two days later, but soon as you found a window between, you advised us, which was very beneficial, as the fire pump leak progressed. Your technician Joseph Dantoni came prepared for the service with all the tools and materials needed, and performed a very good job by repairing the leak in a safe and professional manner, taking time to check and adjust all components for complete resolve.

I have nothing but thanks for this team effort.

Janet Werner

FROM A CUSTOMER

I would like to address one of your employees Janet Werner. Janet has gone above and beyond to make sure my experience with Fireline has gone smoothly. Please make sure Janet is recognized for willingness to make sure our business needs were met!! If it wasn't for her we will still be at square one. She really went out of her way to help us and for that we are very grateful!! Fireline is lucky to have Janet!!! It's employees like her that will make me recommend Fireline to other customers.

MONITORING TRANSITION

After many months of preparations, Fireline has moved our central station to Affiliated Monitoring! This move is to give our customers and technicians better support with improved communications and technologies needed in today's world.

A team of Fireline employees and Affiliated employees worked hard to make the transition a successful one. Many thanks to everyone involved for making this transition go significantly smoother than anticipated.

From the Affiliated Team:

Fireline is one of the most organized and best run companies that I have worked with. The amount of time that you guys took to prepare and make sure everything was organized showed when we went there to work on the transition.

We truly appreciate how committed your team was to this transition as we understand the importance of this transfer for Fireline.

THE FSSA CONFERENCE: 40TH ANNIVERSARY

This year the Fire Suppression System Association (FSSA) celebrated their 40th anniversary in Bonita Springs, Florida.

Rich Sigethy, Anna Gavin and Dave Krenzer attended this year, networking with peers and attending educational sessions. They started the event with a 1940's themed reception and also held their annual charity fundraising wiffle ball tournament.

Dave Krenzer was a panel speaker at the conference this year doing a presentation on a case study of fire suppression in the power generation industry. We are proud to have someone as passionate and knowledgeable about suppression systems as Dave to represent Fireline.
